A Decade of Difference

For Bruce Mainville and Howard Natenshon, MD, helping people with cancer is both professional mission and personal passion.

As a nuclear medicine technologist at Baystate Franklin Medical Center, Bruce Mainville uses state-of-the-art imaging technology to stage tumors – providing vital information in support of the diagnostic and therapeutic services provided by the hospital’s oncology group. He lost his father to cancer in 2003. “I don’t know anyone who hasn’t been affected by it,” he notes.

Over a decade ago, Bruce teamed up with his longtime friend, colleague, and fellow cycling enthusiast, Baystate Franklin radiologist Howard Natenshon, MD, to launch Wheeling for Healing – a charity bike ride to benefit cancer care at the hospital.

Today, Wheeling for Healing attracts more than 200 people who ride, run, and walk (some even pushing baby strollers) in support of cancer care in Franklin County. Riders hail from throughout Massachusetts and even out of state, drawn by the beauty of the course, which launches from the Greenfield Community College campus and winds through picturesque country roads. Bruce and Howard’s children and grandchildren plan their summer vacations around the event. The energy (“We love that group adrenaline,” says Bruce) lasts all year, as the committee meets to plan the next event.

Over the past ten years, Wheeling for Healing has made it possible for Baystate Franklin Medical Center to purchase equipment, make facility improvements, and offer Reiki therapy, yoga, and other programs for cancer patients.

Funds generated by the event also help patients in less visible ways.

“Cancer can be mentally, physically, and financially devastating,” Bruce explains. “People are confronted with enormous expenses, at a time when their ability to work may be limited. We help pay for chemotherapy and anti-nausea drugs. We’ve even helped people put enough gas in their car to get to their treatment. Our goals are to support our health care professionals in providing excellent cancer care, and to support our patients through the experience in any way we can.”

Join us for Wheeling for Healing on August 19, 2018!

You’re all about heart.

So are we.

Every day, Baystate Health Foundation channels your compassion through every moment of kindness and healing delivered by the more than 12,000 team members of Baystate Health.

That’s hundreds of thousands of moments of nationally-recognized, high quality care – brought to western Massachusetts each year by generous people like you.

Your philanthropic partnership is more important than ever. You nourish our excellence in hospital-based care – including cardiac care, cancer care, trauma and emergency services, obstetrics, pediatrics, and a wide range of other specialties – as well as our broad portfolio of community-based services.

Every gift you make allows us to envision, plan and innovate faster – giving us the agility and capacity to address the changing needs of our communities, in real time, and to bring the future of medicine to our region as quickly as possible.

Last year, you helped to launch construction of a new Emergency Department at Baystate Wing Hospital; build a new Pediatric Procedure Unit, incorporating the Sadowsky Center for Children, at Baystate Children’s Hospital; establish the innovative Acute Care for Elders (ACE) Unit & Program at Baystate Medical Center; enhance the front entrance at Baystate Noble Hospital; and deliver life-saving cancer care treatments at Baystate Franklin Medical Center. And so much more.
In the following pages, you’ll meet some of the generous people who joined you in supporting our care last year – people who understand heart power from every perspective.

- You’ll meet Roberta and Bob Bolduc – tireless community supporters who gave from the heart to impact the lives of a generation of children who will receive care in the new Pediatric Procedure Unit at Baystate Children’s Hospital.
- You’ll meet Gary Gorman, a lifelong runner who has raised funds for Baystate Children’s Hospital and Baystate Noble Hospital – and who laced up for an international marathon after cardiac surgery at Baystate Medical Center.
- You’ll meet Bob Langevin, whose heart attack interrupted an ordinary work day – and whose care, at Baystate Wing Hospital and Baystate Medical Center, inspired an extraordinary corporate gift.
- And you’ll get to know the names (and some of the faces) of the incredible people who organized and participated in events, contributed to capital campaigns, made bequests and planned gifts, and supported our care in countless other ways. Generous people like you.

There are many stories to tell. We look forward to sharing more of them with you in the days ahead. In the meantime, please join us in celebrating the thousands of generous, compassionate people who came together, as a community of caring, for the patients of Baystate Health last year. We are so honored, and so grateful, for your support.

Our gratitude to you permeates every page of this publication – as your generosity informs every moment of our care.

On behalf of our patients, who benefited from your generosity last year, please accept our heartfelt thanks. Together, you truly help us deliver a higher state of caring.

Last year was a time of leadership transition – as well as growth – for Baystate Health Foundation.

Jane Albert, who had served as executive director of the Foundation and as vice president of philanthropy at Baystate Health since 2013, was promoted to a new role as Senior Vice President, Marketing, Communications and External Relations at Baystate Health. Jane was succeeded by Scott Berg, who joined the Foundation in November after serving as President & CEO of the YMCA of Greater Springfield.

“Scott has been actively engaged in the health and well-being of western Massachusetts for years, through his work with the YMCA,” says Baystate Health Foundation chair Jean Deliso. “We are very fortunate to have Scott’s leadership – as well as the continued vision, energy, and commitment of Jane Albert. Jane led our Foundation through a formative period of significant growth and continues to advance philanthropy in her new role.”

“I’d like to express our thanks to Jane and Scott, as well as to the talented Foundation team members who sustained operations – and supported us in raising $4.8 million – during last year’s leadership transition,” Jean continues. “We are especially grateful to Kathy Tobin, who served as interim leader of philanthropy while simultaneously carrying out her responsibilities as director of annual giving and events. The people of Baystate Health Foundation – our Board, our staff, and especially our donors – truly epitomize the values that make western Massachusetts great.”
Baystate Health has been there for some of the most important people in Roberta Bolduc’s life — and, she notes with palpable compassion, thousands of people she will never meet.

“My father battled cancer for 16 years, and he had wonderful doctors in Springfield and received excellent care at Baystate,” she remembers. “And, years ago, when our 11-year-old daughter had an unusual appendix issue, requiring two surgeries and three weeks in the hospital, she received excellent care from top-notch pediatric surgeons at Baystate Children’s Hospital.”

Sustaining Baystate Health as a magnet for stellar healthcare talent drove the Bolduc family’s decision to help make Baystate Children’s Hospital’s new Pediatric Procedure Unit (PPU) possible.

“It’s very important to ensure that Baystate will continue to be the premier health care organization in western Massachusetts, by attracting the best doctors, nurses, and other professionals,” she says. “This facility will help us do that.”

Making life better — one act of generosity at a time

The new unit encompasses the Sadowsky Center for Children, which provides chemotherapy and infusion therapy for children with cancer, and an expanded pediatric procedure unit, where children with a wide range of acute and chronic conditions receive spinal taps, intravenous therapy for dehydration, and more.

Each side of the new facility has its own waiting room, so that children with cancer — whose immune systems may be compromised by chemotherapy — can be protected from flu and other infectious diseases.

In recognition of the Bolducs’ generosity, both reception desks in the unit have been named in their honor.

It’s all part of a profound commitment to community for the Bolducs, whose Pride stores serve more than a dozen cities and towns in the region.
“Roberta and I both feel that we’d like our efforts in philanthropy to support the education and and well-being of children – and, in a broader sense, we believe very strongly in giving back to the community,” says Bob. “We’re delighted to join the Sadowsky family and all who have come together to help make this new facility a reality.”

“We all play a part in keeping this community growing and thriving,” Roberta adds. “If everybody does a little, the big challenges are much more manageable.”

“It’s very important to ensure that Baystate will continue to be the premier healthcare organization in western Massachusetts, by attracting the best doctors, nurses, and other professionals. This facility will help us do that.”

We invite you to take a virtual tour of the new Pediatric Procedure Unit! Please visit the Baystate Health channel on youtube.com and search for “Pediatric Procedure Unit.” Naming opportunities are still available; for information, please contact Kathleen Bronner at (413) 794-7798 or kathleen.bronner@baystatehealth.org
Going the distance

On April 29, 2017, as Gary and Tina Gorman were honored as the Baystate Noble 5K’s top fundraisers, they were celebrating something even bigger. The finish line in Westfield’s Stanley Park was an important marker on Gary’s road back from a serious cardiac condition.

“At first, I thought I was just tired,” Gary, a lifelong distance runner, remembers. “Then I started to feel chest pressure after I’d been running for a while.”

Multiple diagnostic tests revealed nothing but a healthy heart. But Gary knew something was wrong – and one of his cardiologists, John Zimmerman, MD, kept advocating for further testing.

Finally, Gary reported to Baystate Medical Center, where cardiologist Sujata Holman, MD, performed a transesophageal echocardiogram (TEE) – viewing his heart through the tissue-thin wall of his esophagus.

There it was. Mitral valve prolapse.

From operating room to finish line

Gary’s mitral valve – which regulates the flow of blood through the heart – was malfunctioning, leaking blood into his left atrium. “You could see it flailing,” he remembers.

On June 28, 2016, now-retired cardiac surgeon John Rousou, MD, repaired the valve. By the time Gary was discharged on July 3, he could walk a mile – making 13 loops around the perimeter of his patient care unit in Baystate’s Davis Family Heart and Vascular Center.

“My goal was to run a marathon again,” he says, “starting with a 5K.”

By fall, Gary returned to full-time clinical practice as a chiropractor. By the following spring, he had completed cardiac rehabilitation and was not only running in the Baystate Noble 5K and sharing top fundraising honors with his wife, but also announcing plans to run a half-marathon in Ireland.

Friendship and gratitude

August 13, 2017, found Gary in Dublin’s Phoenix Park, at the finish line of the city’s Rock ‘n’ Roll Half Marathon.

Several members of Griffin’s Friends – a group of runners with whom Gary had run past races, including the Boston Marathon, to raise funds for “moments of joy” for pediatric oncology patients at Baystate Children’s Hospital – had kept pace beside him along the 13.1-mile course.

At the nine-mile mark, he had met a runner who had undergone a double-lung transplant, due to a congenital disease, and was running in memory of his donor.

“Walking over to get my race bag, I had tears in my eyes,” Gary recalls. “I was so grateful for my health and my body’s capacity for repair and recovery, for my family and friends, and for the expertise and compassion of Dr. Rousou and my care team.”
Participating in one of Baystate Health Foundation’s signature fundraising events is a great way to raise funds in appreciation of the care you or a loved one has received. If you’d like to support patient care at Baystate Health by participating in a fun and inspirational event, please visit baystatehealth.org/bhf and select “Our Events” or contact Kathy Tobin at (413) 794-5996 or kathy.tobin@baystatehealth.org for more information.
Building with heart

As vice president of Ludlow-based Raymond R. Houle Construction, Inc., Bob Langevin has been building patient care environments at Baystate Health for more than 25 years. Two years ago, he became a patient – and helped to launch an impactful philanthropic partnership.

Standing in front of an image of the hospital, Bob Langevin is thankful to be helping to build the future at Baystate Wing Hospital.
Rendering of the future Baystate Wing Emergency Department.

It happened on a blustery January day in 2016.

“I'd just left a meeting at Baystate Wing Hospital and was heading to Baystate Mary Lane,” Bob remembers. “All of a sudden I was incredibly thirsty, so I stopped for water on the way.”

He was sitting in his truck, at the Big Y in Palmer, when he began to experience two new symptoms – shortness of breath and chest pain – in addition to his odd, extreme thirst.

He headed back to the Baystate Wing Emergency Department.

“I said I don't know what's wrong with me,” he recalls. “They said we do.”

Three hours later, Bob was in recovery – with two stents in his cardiac arteries – at Baystate Medical Center's Davis Family Heart and Vascular Center, where he had been transferred after stabilization at Baystate Wing.

“I think of Dr. John Joelson, who opened up my arteries, as my plumbing contractor, and Dr. John Marenco, who regulated my heartbeat, as my electrical contractor,” he jokes.

Taking care of our community together

Through sponsorship of the annual Baystate Wing Hospital Golf Tournament, Houle Construction is helping to fund the new Emergency Department – complementing the time, energy and expertise the firm’s employees have devoted to Baystate Wing’s expansion over the years.

Upon learning about plans to build a new Pediatric Procedure Unit (PPU) and relocate the Sadowsky Center for Children to Baystate Children's Hospital, the company also generously named two of the new unit's treatment bays in honor of the young patients who are cared for in the hospital's new facility and the “special way a child adds joy every day.”

The unit provides chemotherapy and other infusion services for children with cancer, as well as a range of special procedures for children with other chronic and acute conditions.

Today, Bob Langevin is feeling great – and grateful. “There are times when you need care right here and right now, as I did,” he says. “I'm honored to help Baystate Health provide that care for everyone in western Massachusetts.”

“All of our personnel are local,” says Tim Pelletier. “Houle Construction, like Baystate Health, is deeply rooted in the community. The way the Baystate Health team took care of Bob, in very scary circumstances, highlights how important it is for all of us to pull together and support this level of care for our region.”

Friends, family and members of the local community gathered at Nathan Bill’s Bar & Restaurant in Springfield in August for Jessy’s Run/Jessy’s Fight, a 5K run/walk and block party fundraiser in support of the Baystate Regional Cancer Program. The event honored Jessy Sullivan, who is undergoing treatment for anaplastic oligodendroglioma. This fall, Jessy and her husband, John, presented a check for $62,458.42 to benefit the Baystate Regional Cancer Program and D’Amour Center for Cancer Care. In May 2017, representatives of Baystate Health and Country Bank joined community leaders in breaking ground on a $17.2 million expansion of Baystate Wing Hospital to accommodate a new Emergency Department, set to open in September 2018. Pictured (top photo): In recognition of Country Bank’s $1 million gift in support of the project, Paul Scully (left), chair of Baystate Wing Hospital and CEO of Country Bank, is presented with a commemorative shovel by Michael Moran, president and chief administrative officer of the Baystate Health Eastern Region.
Your philanthropy in action

Thank you for your support of Baystate Health Foundation. Together, we helped to deliver a higher state of caring for western Massachusetts.

Building a strong Foundation for high-quality care

I am pleased to report that Baystate Health Foundation is strong, stable, and growing – concluding calendar year 2017 with $125.3 million in net assets, up from $117.2 million the previous year. The impact we make together continues to intensify.

Between January 1 and December 31, 2017, the Foundation gratefully accepted $4.8 million in gifts, grants, and event proceeds. We disbursed $8.8 million throughout Baystate Health – funds used to purchase life-saving technology and equipment, create and sustain state-of-the-art patient care environments, and advance patient care, education, and research.

Endowing the future of care for our community

You might ask: How was it possible for the Foundation to distribute more funds last year than it took in? A big piece of the answer is: Endowment.

More than $3 million of all funds contributed to patient care by the Foundation in 2017 came from endowment funds or perpetual trusts.

For more than a century, generous individuals and families have been establishing endowment funds in support of what is now known as Baystate Health. Endowment funds are gifts that are invested in perpetuity or for a specific number of years. A portion of the interest earned from the funds is used to support areas of care that are of special affinity to the donor. Excess income is reinvested in the endowment to grow the fund and protect it from inflation.

What all endowment funds have in common is that they represent a perpetual source of support – yielding annual income that sustains care at Baystate Health across generations.

For all of us at Baystate Health Foundation, it is an honor to help you channel your generosity to our patients.

Sincerely,

Dennis Chalke

Celebrating the power of community

Major gifts from individuals and foundations, made in support of capital campaigns and other significant philanthropic initiatives, represented the second-largest source of Foundation support last year at 31% of total giving.

Last year, our campaign donors provided vital funds needed to support the building of a new Emergency Department at Baystate Wing Hospital, a new Pediatric Procedure Unit (PPU) at Baystate Children's Hospital, and a new front entrance at Baystate Noble Hospital, among other projects.

Currently, our largest source of funding, at 52%, is event income – the funds that people in cities and towns all over western Massachusetts raised by walking, running, dancing, golfing, and participating in countless large and small fundraising events throughout the year.

Once again last year, thousands of generous people like you powered an extraordinary, region-wide wave of compassion that made a tangible impact in the lives of our patients.

You help to fund every moment of our care. You allow us to envision and execute innovative programs, renovate our current facilities, and build new ones. And you accelerate the availability of new therapies by making it possible to acquire and install new equipment and technology. You make a life-changing impact every day.

For all of us at Baystate Health Foundation, it is an honor to help you channel your generosity to our patients.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Dennis Chalke
